TO THE UNFORTUNATE.

NEW REMEDIES, NEW REMEDIES

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary,

616 KEARNEY STREET NEAR COMMERCIAL [illegible] established in 1854, [illegible] the treatment of Sexual and [illegible] Diseases, such as Gonorrhea, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in [illegible], Seminal Weakness [illegible], etc. Skin Diseases [illegible] and Ulcerated Legs [illegible] fully treated.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgence, or from virus [illegible] into the system! Look at their pallid, emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage [illegible] the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends, attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible life-destroying maladies—see that they are cured and cured before it be too late. Send [illegible] solely to Doctor Gibbon, a physician who has made private disease his especial study for years and who [illegible] to cure the most inveterate cases without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill [illegible] all [illegible] in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make [illegible] inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of those [illegible].

Seminal Weakness.

[illegible] the consequence of self-abuse. This [illegible] vice, or depraved sexual indulgence, is practised by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing, with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combatted by scientific medical [illegible], viz: Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, a disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequently insanity. If relief be obtained, should apply immediately, either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr. G. will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either [illegible] San Francisco quacks.

MARRIED MEN.

[illegible] those who contemplate marriage, who are suffering [illegible] any of these fearful maladies, should not forget the [illegible] responsibility resting upon [illegible] not delay to [illegible] immediate relief. DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible and will give to each patient a written instrument binding him to effect a radical and permanent cure, or make no charge.

CURED AT HOME.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME by addressing a letter to Dr. GIBBON, stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicines promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions for use. For Ten Dollars sent in registered letter or through Wells, Fargo & Co.

Caution to the Unfortunate.

Beware of the San Francisco [illegible] with bogus [illegible] of the self-styled doctors [illegible] in the daily and weekly [illegible] and other places [illegible] to work [illegible] newspaper [illegible]. Look over the San Francisco Directory and you will not find the Medical [illegible] their former [illegible] for 1862 and 1863 [illegible] is to make enquiry [illegible] save you many regrets [illegible] in truthing any of them [illegible] they are [illegible] at his office [illegible].

Address DR. J. F. GIBBON, 616 Kearney street, [illegible] Commercial, San Francisco. P. O. Box [illegible]. REMEMBER TO PUT BOX 254 IN THE LETTER. Consultation FREE. Correspondents will please [illegible] Dr. J. F. GIBBON [illegible] they read his advertisement [illegible] the Daily Oregonian.

The American Army

[illegible] are among the most [illegible].

At the period of the inauguration of Lincoln the United States was only [illegible]. The regular force, which had formerly passed [illegible] had been [illegible] by the [illegible] Secretary of War [illegible] Texas by the treachery of [illegible] Twiggs.

At the close of the war the army numbered about 1,000,000 men. Such was our strength when [illegible].

[illegible] furnished in the beginning what seemed to be an adequate supply [illegible] patriotic [illegible] and under the influence [illegible] Men were not [illegible] that eventually [illegible] draft.

[illegible] with the [illegible] constituted an armed multitude but not an army. Then it became evident that something more effective was necessary. Many months were consumed and the skill of a trained officer, General McClellan, was exhausted; unstinted supplies were lavished, but, though a great improvement was accomplished, perfection was far from being reached. Not without the utmost difficulty and after many disasters were the political aspirations of officers and men extinguished. It was in the West that the army first became what an army ought to be—a mere retreat [illegible] human [illegible] directed with mathematical precision [illegible] any line and brought to bear irresistibly on any given point. In the judgment of a very high military authority, this degree of perfection was first manifested in Gen. Grant's campaign from Grand Gulf to Vicksburg.

To attain to this an army must have cast all outward political thought. It must have implicit reliance on the mind which is guiding it. It must have complete cohesion in all its parts, from that tenacity results. Each soldier must thoroughly feel that, no matter how insignificant he as a single individual may be, he is absolutely sustained in what he is about to do by the unswerving and unfailing power of the whole force. The highest excellence is reached when the conscience of this conception is attained, and the individual soldier considers that on him personally the safety and honor of the whole army may be depending. In the wars of Napoleon the Imperial Guard had been brought to this state. It is not by the pageantry [illegible] that this grand ideal is reached [illegible] perfect soldier, like his own weapon, must have passed through the ordeal of fire.

Considering the military condition of the nation when General McClellan undertook the formation and organization of the great Army of the Potomac, the time consumed in bringing that force into a satisfactory condition was far from being too long. The preceding paragraph shows how much was actually accomplished. From the resources furnished without stint by Congress McClellan created that army. Events showed that his mental constitution was such that he could not use it on the battlefield.

Events also showed that McClellan's solution of the problem of the form of the war was incorrect. He did not recognize the importance of the Mississippi Valley, and looked upon military operations there as of secondary importance. Though the force he had accumulated was already unmanageable in his hands, he unceasingly importuned the Government to strip the Western armies of whatever they could for the sake of adding to his already unwieldy mass. There probably never was an army in the world so lavishly supplied as that of the Potomac before the Peninsula expedition. General McDowell, who knew the state of things well, declared in his testimony before the Congressional Committee on the Conduct of the War: "There never was an army in the world so well supplied as ours. I believe a French army of half the size could be supplied with what we waste."

While these things were lavished on the Army of the East no superfluities were given to the Army of the West. In his examination before the same Congressional Committee Gen. Pope said that the Western Army had labored under a great many disadvantages, but it had always pursued an aggressive policy from the beginning. So far as material was concerned it was indifferently supplied compared with the Army of the East. He added: "We had nothing you might say. I have seen men go into action there with the locks of their muskets tied on with strings. I have seen them wearing overcoats to hide their nakedness, as they had no pantaloons. When I left there were some troops that had been there over a year, and yet had but two or three ambulances to a regiment of a thousand men." To the question, "Was it all appropriated to the Army of the Potomac?" he replied: "I do not say what [illegible] of it. I do not know that it had any [illegible] at least we never saw it. Our troops suffered very much, and I must say that it was understood by them to have been from neglect on the part of the Government."

It was the man in the overcoat, with the lock of his rifle tied on with a string, who won [illegible] not the pampered, costly uniformed soldier.

I shall close this chapter by putting some instructive remarks on the national armies of the civil war. They occur in a [illegible] made to me by one of the greatest and most successful of the Generals. "Our paper armies were very large, while the officers and men for actual duty were small in comparison. As a rule, in a well ordered army, of 66 per cent. of the men present can be brought into battle it is a good average; the other 34 per cent. are employed as cooks, teamsters, nurses, servants, etc., etc.—are sick, on furlough, detached. Then the men reported as absent to guard rivers, depots, prisons, railroads, stations, escorts, etc., etc., make fearful blanks in every regiment and subdivision of the army. [illegible] present and absent [illegible] could expect to bring into battle at any [illegible] from his base of supplies, more than [illegible] 000 men. By way of illustration I take the case of the close of the war, when for the first time we got at the real facts and figures. One million [illegible] thousand men were then on the muster rolls to be paid off and discharged. The active fighting armies then were:

Grant at Richmond	[illegible]
[illegible] at Raleigh	[illegible]
[illegible] in North Carolina	[illegible]
Canby at Mobile and in the Southwest	[illegible]
Wilson's cavalry at Macon, Georgia	12 [illegible]
[illegible] in East Tennessee	[illegible]
[illegible] Kentucky and Tennessee	[illegible]
West of Mississippi, Missouri and Arkansas	[illegible]

[illegible] all the rest [illegible] Guarding thousands of miles of [illegible] rivers and roads, guarding prisoners [illegible] [illegible] overestimates the exact strength of armies [illegible] returns. [illegible] the time of the greatest pressure [illegible] not [illegible] and battles."

INFLUENTIAL SUFFRAGE IN NEVADA.—An [illegible] in the Nevada Legislature [illegible] admitting all citizens [illegible]. Many [illegible] in that State, as elsewhere [illegible] the North [illegible] that the [illegible] very strong. DATES TO JANUARY 26.

Congressional.

WASHINGTON, Jan. [illegible] [illegible] Senate [illegible] the first [illegible] amendment [illegible] last year [illegible] November.

Trumbull [illegible] Congress [illegible] either House [illegible] regularly accepted representatives.

[illegible] repeal [illegible] amendment [illegible] removal [illegible] the Senate, and authorizing him to suspend all other civil officers during such recess without specific evidence to justify suspension.

Stewart, from Judiciary Committee, reported against allowing Joshua Hill, Senator elect from Georgia, to take his seat now.

Trumbull presented a minority report dissenting. Both were ordered printed.

Morton moved to take up the House bill for the relief of Mrs. McCoskin, which was postponed at the last session. A discussion ensued lasting till the expiration of the morning hour. Several Senators contended that an indefinite postponement was equivalent to a rejection.

The unfinished business of Saturday, the bill relating to the Central branch of the Union Pacific railroad was taken up.

Sherman moved to postpone it and take up his financial bill.

Howard opposed this motion and urged the friends of the Central Branch bill to keep it before the Senate.

Sherman's motion was lost—21 to 30.

The Continental Branch bill was discussed until the Senate adjourned.

In the House several bills were introduced, including two railroad grant bills.

Robinson offered a resolution declaring that the American people do not approve the ratification of the Alabama treaty or any other treaty with England while American citizens are held in prison in Great Britain for acts done under the American flag.

Shanks offered a resolution to pay the Arkansas members for the full term of the Fortieth Congress.

Washburne moved to lay the resolution on the table. Lost—73 to 88. The resolution was referred to the Committee on Reconstruction.

Here the morning hour expired. The next business was the consideration of the suffrage amendment bill.

Boutwell said the Generals who desire to discuss the subject were not present to-day, so its consideration was postponed to Wednesday.

The House resumed consideration of the bill granting the right of way to the Denver Pacific Railroad.

Logan addressed the House in opposition to the bill.

Washburne and Schenck spoke in favor of the bill. The latter said, in reply to a statement made by Logan, that even if it was against the wish of the President elect, he should vote according to his own judgment and sense of duty, undeterred by any such intimidation.

Logan disclaimed having stated that Gen. Grant had expressed an opinion on the proposed road.

Higby and O'Neill spoke in support of the bill. Covode closed the debate in its favor and moved the previous question on its passage.

Washburne, of Illinois, moved to table the bill and moved a call of the House. He wanted all the members to be present and show their hands. A call of the House was not ordered. The House refused to table the bill—55 yeas to 95 noes, and also resolved to second the motion for the previous question.

The bill was finally referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

Paine desired to offer a resolution directing the Committee on Reconstruction to inquire and report whether action ought to be taken by the 40th Congress respecting the representation of Georgia. Ross objected.

Paine moved to suspend the rules, but after discussion, withdrew his motion.

Washburne moved to go into Committee of the Whole on the Legislative appropriation bill.

Spaulding moved to adjourn. Carried—81 to 77.

Mrs. Lincoln Petitions for a Pension.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—The following petition was to-day presented to the Senate, written on note paper with a heavy mourning border:

Vice President of the United States, Sir: I herewith present to the honorable Senate of the United States my demand for a pension. I am a widow of a President of the United States, whose life was sacrificed in his country's service. That sad calamity has greatly impaired my health and by advice of my physicians I have come over to Germany to try the mineral waters, and during the winter to go to Italy, but my financial means do not permit me to take advantage of the urgent advice given me, nor can I live in a style becoming the widow of the Chief Magistrate of a great nation, although I live as economically as I can. In consideration of the services of my deeply lamented husband, rendered to the United States and of the fearful loss I have sustained by his untimely death, his martyrdom, I may say, I respectfully submit to your honorable body this petition, hoping that a yearly petition may be granted to me, so that I may have less pecuniary care. I remain most respectfully,

[Signed] MRS. A. LINCOLN,
Frankfurt, Germany.

Referred to the Committee on Pensions.

St. Thomas dates to the 14th state that President Baez has sold Alta Vela to a French Company, [illegible] the previous sale. The American [illegible] at San Domingo has protested against the transfer and sent for a war vessel. Baez had invited President Cabral and his followers to return home, and they will do so if Baez will abdicate and hold a new election for President. Many disturbances between soldiers and citizens had occurred. Havana accounts state that shots have been fired from house tops at the volunteers in several instances. A serious affray occurred at [illegible] Coffee House. The volunteers fired upon the guards indiscriminately with fatal effect. Several [illegible] were killed and others dangerously wounded. The volunteers had first been fired at from the neighborhood of the coffee house. While the volunteers [illegible] the theater shots were [illegible] which two ladies and several children were killed.

Washington News.

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—The Times' Washington special says the following: General Grant is strongly opposed to the pending Alabama claim treaty. The following is his proposition nearly [illegible]. The treaty is unjust to the United States, because it assumes to measure the injury inflicted upon this country by the money value of the ships actually destroyed, whereas the chief damage to our commerce was in our shipping being driven from the sea by Anglo-rebel [illegible]. [illegible] the sympathy expressed by the British government to the South prolonged the war at least one year. For all the lives and money expended for this time England [illegible] responsible. The treaty proposes to settle all these things by payment of the paltry value of a few ships.

PUGET SOUND.

[From the [illegible] Transcript.]

It is understood that parties have in circulation a petition for liquor license for another saloon in Olympia, to be signed by the women as well as the men.

Quite a large number of children in the town have the measles, and it appears to be increasing. A large number have been taken out of school, and more are expecting to have it.

The new steam-tug boat, now being built at Port Discovery, will be ready for launching in about six weeks. She will be the largest and most powerful tug boat on the Sound. She belongs to Mastick & Co.

The postoffice at Mima has been discontinued, and the sacks, keys, etc., delivered to the Olympia office, the postmaster refusing to act longer. No one in the neighborhood will take it, although the mail has been sent in separate bags for their accommodation.

Postmaster Munson favors the Echo with the following statement of the transactions in the money order department, for the year ending December 31, 1868, at the office in this place: Orders sold, $31,818 97; paid, $22,442 65; fees for same, $175 65; fees allowed to postmaster, $87 87.

The weather thus far this winter has been very mild—no snow or ice, with some that was pleasant. Many have had an unusual amount of green vegetables all winter and are talking about early gardens. The grass is beginning to start, summer birds are flying, and in a few days, without Old Winter hurries up, it will be spring again.

We wonder that some enterprising man has not, ere this time, commenced the cultivation of cranberries in this Territory, and particularly in this vicinity. The marshy lands lying along Black River, about the various little lakes, and on the wet lands between here and Grand Mound, would make superior cranberry marshes, with comparatively little work. These berries might be produced in quantities sufficient to make them a staple article of export.

The Forest Queen was successfully launched at Port Ludlow on Saturday last, and is now being rigged. On the first attempt to launch her, a few days previous, the tide fell off in such a manner that she did not float, but remained at the end of the ways till the new moon tides enabled her owners to get her off, which was done without accident or injury. The Forest Queen is 411 tons, new measurement, and will be rigged as a bark. She is pronounced by all competent judges to be the finest vessel ever built on the Pacific coast.

FROM THE NORTH

[From the V[illegible], Jan. 23.]

An instance is related to us of a party of [illegible] very [illegible] natives [illegible] flesh from a human leg. The [illegible] greatly abashed when discovered [illegible] they should be [illegible] had [illegible] that this [illegible] of [illegible] had become extinct among our savage tribes.

Mr. Th[illegible], of Cariboo, who is now in this city, has received [illegible] Weaver, who [illegible] in the new [illegible] Kootenay. Weaver says the [illegible] rich, nor extensive, but that they will pay fair wages to a few. He [illegible] come, but should there be a "rush," he [illegible] will not take place until after high water, [illegible] the first of July. He adds that there is a large section of unprospected country lying [illegible] Kootenay and [illegible] rivers, [illegible] diggings may be struck [illegible].

Only five or six piles [illegible] to be driven at James Bay, and the planking is down for two-thirds of the required distance. In the [illegible] the workmen found [illegible] the piles reached the rock. This channel is about 350 feet wide, and if dredged would make a fine basin where at high water a large [illegible] might lie. Some day, probably, when the [illegible] harbor room becomes crowded with shipping, this basin may be reclaimed.

We understand that Mr. Lamb, Superintendent of the Western Union Telegraph Company, who arrived yesterday from Puget Sound, has [illegible] instructions to close the telegraph line and call in operators from every station on British [illegible] Territory, except this city. The [illegible] for this extraordinary movement is that the line [illegible] heavily—some $10,000 per year. [illegible] this arrangement, then, we shall have no telegraphic communication with the [illegible], and the important district of Co[illegible] and the [illegible] diate agricultural section, will be entirely cut off from communication with this city [illegible], a fact that will affect most [illegible] all of [illegible]. It is to be hoped that the [illegible] may [illegible] or that the extent of the Superintendent's [illegible] tions have been exaggerated by Dame Rumor.

Death of Neander.

No more striking illustration was ever given of the ruling passion strong in death, than in the last hours of the beloved Neander. His thoughts even when reason wandered, were on his work. Mrs. Conant gives the following sketch:

A wine bath had been prepared for him, as a last resort. Refreshed and strengthened by it, he was borne from the darkened room, where he had lain hitherto, into his study, that cheerful little apartment opening to the sun, which had been so long the workshop and the paradise of the man of thought. Here for nearly twenty years he had studied and written. From this spot had gone forth those great works which have delighted and instructed Christendom. Ere long he murmured dreamily, as if at the close of a long, fatiguing walk with his sister, "I am weary; let us now make ready to go home."

Just then, the rich sunset glow, pouring through the window, lighted up the shelves from which looked down upon him the masters of thought with whom for so many years he had held silent but high and enduring communion. Raising himself by a sudden effort from his pillow, he commenced a regular lecture upon New Testament exegesis. Soon a new image passed before his restless fancy. Imagining himself at the weekly meeting of his beloved Seminarium, surrounded by his fondly attached theological pupils, he called for the reading of a dissertation, recently before assigned, on the material and formal principle of the Reformation. He then dictated the titles of the different courses of lectures to be delivered by him the next session, among them, "The Gospel of John, from its true historical point of view."

His last thoughts amid the struggles of death, were devoted to the great labor of his life. Beginning at the very passage of his church history where sickness had arrested his progress he resumed the thread of thought, and in spite of interruptions, continued to dictate in regular periods for some time. At the close of each sentence he paused, as if his amanuensis were taking down his words, and asked, "Are you ready?" Having closed a division of his subject, he inquired the time. Being told that it was half past nine, the patient sufferer repeated once more, "I am weary. I will now go to sleep!" Having by the aid of friendly hands stretched himself in bed for his last slumber, he whispered, in a tone of inexpressible tenderness which sent a thrill through every heart, "Good night!" It was his last word. He immediately fell into a sleep, which continued four hours, when his great spirit, in the quiet of a Sabbath morning, passed gently into the land of peace.

The Daily Oregonian.

THURSDAY MORNING, JAN [illegible] 1869

Things to be Kept in Remembrance

[illegible] to keep this in remembrance [illegible] a Democrat in [illegible] Legislature [illegible] to prohibit the [illegible] employment of Chinese on railroads and [illegible] a Democratic Legislature passed [illegible] would have become a law [illegible] a Republican Governor vetoed [illegible] a Republican [illegible] approves the act of [illegible]

Laborers and mechanics keep this in remembrance that Col Chapman a Democrat introduced during a bill to [illegible] Chinese in this State [illegible] measure which was in conflict with the Constitution of the United States which was in opposition to the settled policy of the nation as declared the Supreme Court and which had it been enacted and its enforcement attempted would have been thrown out of any court in the State or nation. Perhaps we have gone a little too far in this statement for it may be that the Courts presided over by Justices Bull and Work in this city would have affirmed the constitutionality of Chapman's bill. Laborers and mechanics keep this also in remembrance that Governor Woods in vetoing this bill stood on the highest authority in the United States and that his position in respect to the bill is absolutely unassailable that by this action he killed a bill which was a sham and farce which never could have been enforced and which would have resulted in nothing but trouble and litigation. Keep this also in remembrance that the OREGONIAN approves the Governor's act because that act was in accordance with law, and because the OREGONIAN knows that every attempt to enact and enforce such a law as that proposed by Chapman and passed by the Legislature will be defeated by the judicial tribunals. Such demagogues as Chapman may humbug a partisan Legislature, but they cannot humbug the Courts—always, of course, excepting the honorable Courts of Justices Bull and Work, aforesaid.

In 1867, H H Haight Democrat, was elected Governor of California. The main argument used by him and his friends in the campaign was this same "Chinese question." Haight was terribly severe on the "rat eaters," and with tearful rhetoric lamented the sad condition of the white workingman who was forced to compete with "almon-eyed heathen." But almost the first official act of this white man's champion, after his inauguration as Governor, was to preside at a banquet given to the Chinese ambassadors at San Francisco, who had come over for the purpose of establishing regulations to bring about a freer commercial and personal intercourse between this country and China! We mention this an instance of the remarkable consistency of Democratic professions and practice on this subject. Here is another instance. Buchanan's treaties brought the Chinese here, and now the Democrats curse "Radicalism," because, as they assert, "the country is overrun with Chinese!"

Centralization.

We are pained to observe that our Democratic brethren are evincing a disposition to "go back on" State rights. The Herald has actually got to talking about the "undue privileges" of the small States in the Senate! It cites the fact that the vote of the State of New York is larger than the vote of six New England States, yet New England has twelve Senators while New York has but two, and thirty-nine votes in the Electoral College while New York has but thirty-three. Upon this "inequality of representation" the Herald [illegible] with all the fervor of one who never heard of State rights, and winds up with the declaration that a change will be effected some of these days whether the New Englanders like it or not. Shades of Jefferson and Calhoun! has it come to pass that your professed followers have given up the cherished and honored principles, and commenced advocating doctrines of centralization more odious than ever uttered even by the blue-light Federalists! Now as the small States are to be annihilated, we would remind the Herald that the rule will apply elsewhere than in New England. There is Delaware, for example, a State which for years has been Democratic. She borders on Pennsylvania, and would make a third rate county in the old Keystone State. The three Pacific States, which the Democracy claim they will hereafter control, probably have about half as much population as Iowa, yet they have six Senators to Iowa's two, and eleven votes in the Electoral College to Iowa's eight. Such small States as Florida and South Carolina, which the Democracy have great hopes of winning back and holding permanently, might also be reconstructed with great advantage. But we must protest against the dangerous theory of "centralization" which is advanced by the Herald. Adopting the Democratic style of interrogation, we would inquire if the Herald's scheme is not proof enough that we are "drifting towards a monarchy?" We ask with alarm, what has become of our glorious liberties?

A NEW MONARCHY IN SPAIN.—To her former revolutions and civil wars Spain has given a wretched pre-eminence for their implacable, exterminating ferocity, but her recent revolution has not followed the usual bloody course. Unless the re-establishment of the government shall meet with opposition in some of the provinces, the danger of civil war is about at an end. The monarchists have carried everything and the Republicans seeing the hopelessness of their cause, will probably submit to the government of a king. This decision of Spain is another proof that the essential elements of true Republicanism are as a sealed book to the entire Latin race. Neither in France, in Spain, nor in Italy have these radically essential ideas effectively penetrated the mass of the people preparing them adequately for the reception of a plan of self government, which, from a traditionary age has found favor and a measure of recognition from another race in Northern Europe. As with Spain so in her magnificent colony, Cuba which crowns the Antilles almost in view of the American coast, we perceive the same incompatibility which forbids us to hope for a successful development of the Republican principle. And Mexico like Cuba presents the same unfavorable field for Republican propagandism. Whether in the mother country in her colonies or in those regions which have shaken off nothing of Spain except the yoke of her sovereignty, the apotheosis of a pure, simple self regulated and self containing Liberty awaits a far off day in the march of time.

JAPAN.—The San Francisco Times thinks that the termination of the civil war in Japan in favor of the Mikado will not prove favorable to the advancement of foreign interests in that country or to the extension of trade as the party of the Mikado have always opposed the opening of ports and the making of treaties.

Capital and Labor

We find in the New York Times of the [illegible] December an article on this subject which so fully accords with the views we have expressed that we give its material points and [illegible] that they receive attentive consideration. The Times was discussing the eight-hour law, speaking of the probability of its repeal, and showing that it has always been found a perilous undertaking for Government to fix the prices or control the sale of food, clothing, [illegible] many of the other necessaries of life; that the general principle is that all these things will be best regulated when they are left to be freely regulated by the parties concerned; that the attempts of Government to control these things have always failed and that such attempts must necessarily fail hereafter. The Times continues the argument thus:

Capital has advantages over labor which labor will always deem unfair and unjust. It is much more manageable; its holders can more easily combine its power to hold out in a contest between the two is much greater, and as a necessary result its chances of success are the best. It is quite as necessary to the prosperity of a community as labor is. The South to-day has plenty of labor, but its lack of capital renders it useless. As a general rule capital can always command labor while it is but rarely and under very exceptional circumstances that labor can impose its own laws upon capital.

Capital moreover has this great advantage that if treated unjustly in any country it can go elsewhere. The small returns capital can command in England sends millions of English capital to this country every year and an effective eight hour law in England would send the great bulk of the free capital of the Kingdom elsewhere. An effective eight hour law here would have a similar effect. The large capitalists who invest their incomes in erecting dwellings, for example, will look to other quarters when building becomes so expensive as to be without profit. And then workmen who live by building as well as all who hire dwellings to live in must suffer by the change.

Capital and labor are dependent upon each other, and each profits and prospers only in connection with the other. But there is very clearly a general feeling on the part of the laboring classes throughout the world, that labor should have a larger share of the profits of the joint operation that it gets at present. And labor has an unquestioned right to change the terms of the partnership if it can, and to exact for itself a larger while it imposes on capital a smaller, share of the advantages of their joint exertions.

But we doubt the possibility of making any very great changes in the relations between the two. These relations are fixed and maintained by laws more potent than the enactments of any Legislature. They do not depend on votes and are not in the least affected by universal suffrage nor disturbed or checked in their operation by eloquent stump speeches or able editorials. A fundamental condition of free society is that all its elements and all the forces that give it power shall be free in their development; and any action of the Government that interferes with this retards the growth and injures the prosperity of the society itself.

If labor cripples capital, it will drive it away and so deprive itself of the only means whereby it lives. If capital oppress labor, it degrades society and saps the foundations of its strength. And if Government interferes with either, or attempts to regulate and control their mutual relations it takes from both that freedom of action under natural and indefeasible laws which is their only guarantee of growth and prosperity. Any law which deprives the laboring man of the right to get the most he can for his work, or of the right to work as much as he finds to his advantage,—or which compels an employer to pay as much for little work as for much, or for poor work as for good, inflicts a gross injustice on the parties concerned, and cannot possibly promote the general good.

Resumption

In addition to what we have heretofore said on this subject, we give a paragraph or two from the Cincinnati Gazette. Our argument has been that we do not want to resume specie payments in such a way as will add not less than one-third to all private debts and therefore that we do not want an immediate withdrawal of the paper currency, or its appreciation to par. The Gazette and most of the other leading journals take this view of the subject, and argue that such a course would produce great financial distress.

That paper says: "We do not desire to raise the currency now worth 73 cents at once to par, but to fix it and eventually change it into specie or specie funds, at its present actual value. We do not want to stop creation for three years, while we wipe out existing debts (and debtors too) nor do we want debtors to pay in money worth fifty per cent more than they contracted to pay.

"We want trade and credit to go on as before while the new cash currency is coming in. We want that the lands, houses and goods that were bought on credit shall bring the money to pay the same proportion of debts, while the change of currency is being made. And all this can be done if we will simply recognize the fact that the paper dollar is worth 30 or 40 cents less than the specie dollar, and have our courts recognize it and administer law and equity upon it. We can have specie come in, while all previous contracts shall be settled upon the basis of the paper values. And thus we can have a speedy restoration of the coin standard without disturbing trade, or destroying the values of property, or crushing the debtor class. And we are not going to have any restoration of specie payment without providing all this."

A POOR PIPER.—The Unionist is extremely anxious that we should bestow attention upon it but it is altogether too weak a thing for us to notice at any length. That poor rag says we have "hinted at the connivance of the Governor in the Democratic scheme of gerrymandering the State!" And it attempts to vindicate the Governor from the aspersion! But before it gets through it assails the Governor for "vacillation," and manifests a disposition to commence a systematic attack upon him unless he calls together the [illegible] ous ring of irresponsible ruffians! This viper has gone to gnawing a file; let it keep it up as long as it finds any amusement or relief in the operation. As it is doing the Copperheads all the service its poor abilities will allow, Republicans can have no interest in what it may say. They can find better arguments for an extra session in the Copperhead prints. Chapman writes one every fortnight.

CULTIVATION OF RICE.—A new and most profitable source of wealth has been very lately developed in Louisiana. The rice culture of the State was, only a few years since, confined to a few small coast planters whose product attracted little or no attention in the local markets. Yet now as we learn from the New Orleans Republican such success has attended the cultivation of this grain as to warrant an estimate of the Louisiana crop at an aggregate of five thousand tierces more than the product of the Carolinas. Large additional investments of Northern capital in the business have also recently been witnessed.

SETTLED.—Some of the Copperhead rules think the people did not decide the greenback question at the late election because the Chicago platform was ambiguous on the subject. But the New York Democratic platform was not. That was clear and explicit in favor of paying the national debt in greenbacks, and most as clear and explicit as was the condemnation of it by the people.

Ichabod Washburn of Worcester Massachusetts lately gave $26,000 to the college at Topeka Kansas, and it has been given in his name.

Fisk, Jr, has started $1 000 000 worth of libel suits, and has sued Vanderbilt for $4,500 000. He is considered the biggest suer in New York city.

DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN

DATES TO JANUARY 27

Congressional.

It also allows [illegible] branch [illegible] connect with the Gulf of Mexico and grants eight sections of public lands per mile.

The expiration of the morning hour brought up the bill in relation to the Central Branch of the Pacific railroad.

Corbett said the debate had satisfied him as to the bill. It was not required by any legal or equitable obligation of the government to the Central Branch companies, therefore he withdrew the amendment offered yesterday.

Conkling offered an amendment in the nature of a substitute providing that nothing contained in the act of July 1 1868 relating to the Eastern Division of the Union Pacific Railroad shall deprive the Central branch from continuing the road and telegraph lines from the termination of the 1,800 miles mentioned in the corporation, the company to connect with the Union Pacific Railroad, Eastern Division, as a branch of that road, but requiring the continuation of the Central branch road to be made to a point at or near Fort Riley, Kansas, upon the same terms and in all respects as is now provided by law for the construction of the Eastern Division of the Union Pacific Railroad; and, provided further, that no subsidy shall be allowed to said Central Branch for any greater length of road than forty miles from the termination of the 100 miles on which bonds are already authorized to be issued.

Morton opposed this amendment. He affirmed the equity of the bill. Further discussion was had by Edmunds and Conkling and without action on the amendment, the Senate adjourned.

In the House, the Speaker presented the petition of Mrs Lincoln for a pension. Referred to Committee on Pensions.

Perham from the Committee on Pensions, reported a bill relative to the operations of the pension law. It provides that no pension shall be paid to a widow not a resident of the United States when she lived separate and apart from her husband for five years immediately preceding his death without receiving any support. The remaining sections relate to details applications, proofs, etc. During discussion the morning hour expired and the bill went over.

Washburne moved to go into Committee of the Whole on the Legislative Appropriation Bill. Negatived.

Lyons made a speech in favor of his bill to provide for a general resumption of specie payment. After other speeches on the same subject the House adjourned.

Kohn & Fishel, the leading Dry Goods merchants of Portland, are the driving-wheels of trade in that city. THE ORE[illegible] MAN AT OREGON CITY.—The following extracts are from a letter received last evening from an intelligent observer and [illegible] and respected citizen of Oregon City:

"The Herald of the [illegible] contains a correspondence from some Ku Klux [illegible] which [illegible] Republicans denounce the Oak[illegible] in strong language in consequence of the [illegible] it has taken and the language it has used toward the [illegible] of our city. Now, sir, having [illegible] for knowing the sentiments of the Republicans [illegible] I say that I have yet to find the first working man of the party who [illegible] the [illegible] has anything [illegible] with the Ku Kluxes of this place [illegible] but believe that an active agent for your paper could easily double its circulation [illegible]. The last meeting of the Ku Kluxes was [illegible]. The president [illegible] Marshall [illegible] working mechanic [illegible] the wrath of the newly [illegible] the Ku Klux Klan upon [illegible] Marshall and the [illegible] but people here who know the new chief, [illegible] pity him, as they say that he has had Chinaman on the brain ever since a Chinese cook thrashed him about two years ago for insulting him. The [illegible] of the Ku Kluxes shine [illegible] Mr Dunca[illegible] said that every time he speaks, a calf [illegible] his mouth * * * The Woolen Mill Co is putting [illegible] mill in first rate [illegible] working many in preference to [illegible] It is strange the proprietors do not ask the Ku Kluxes about their right to do so.

WORKING MAN."

THE MOON ON THE RAMPAGE.—We learn from a gentleman of scientific attainments who was last night making observations upon the partial eclipse of the moon that the venerable damsel was practicing some unusual antics, such as winking and blinking and changing [illegible]. This may all be attributable solely to the eclipse, but if the astronomers [illegible] the [illegible]. It has been stated recently that one of the [illegible] on the earth [illegible] has lately disappeared, and that there are [illegible]. It may be that the old gal [illegible] is spouting and that the winking and blinking appearances of last evening were caused by volcanic outbursts. There is a theory among some astronomers that the aerolites which sometimes fall upon the earth come from the moon, being projected from volcanic craters beyond the attractive influence of the moon and within that of the earth. If this be true, and it be also true that her volcanoes are now in that line of business, we beg to ask the old lady in the most respectful manner possible, not to throw stones this way. We don't want any in ours. If she wants [illegible] on the rampage [illegible] herself [illegible] we shall feel greatly obliged if she will wait till she gets over opposite China or some other country about whose welfare we are not so personally concerned. Those China fellows don't care for being smashed and we do.

PASSENGERS FOR SAN FRANCISCO.—The steamship Ajax sailed for San Francisco at 4 P. M. yesterday. The following is her passenger list: Rev Father J [illegible], Rev Father Granditier, Bishop [illegible] Herbomez, W. H. Carton, Mathew Solomon, E. Miller, Mrs Sarah [illegible] and two children, Miss Ellen Phillips, John M [illegible], Joseph Christian, I Marks, C A Bayley, John McCull[illegible], [illegible] Wager, Sam Poon, Chinaman, W Bunster, [illegible], Wm Madge, Capt J. Robertson, G B Hall, D Wertheimer, A Quin, W C Bonnett, F Grancine, Joseph Franklin, J [illegible] Feeney, H. A. [illegible], Thos Kirkpatrick, Rev R I Pearce, Washington Dosher and wife, Alexander McNer[illegible], A F Home, Kate Isaacks, Wm C Thomson, John Adair, Thaddeus Harper, O O Maldren, Thos Hankin, A [illegible] and wife, Luley Franklin, Prosper Quackey, Jacob Kamm, wife and child, Nicholas H [illegible], G W Watson, C P Ferry, Capt J A Smith, Judge Stores, Capt [illegible] Smith, wife and child, James Crawford, Capt Gale, [illegible], Capt Geo Fairsight, Wm Kruger, K N Kinkaid, [illegible] Griffin, O N Penny, wife and daughter, T Conning[illegible], Wm H Bell, J H Lynor, A F George, S Weldy, J [illegible]wood and 20 in steerage.

COMMON COUNCIL.—There was no business transacted by the Common Council. There were present of the Board, his honor Mayor Boyd, and Councilmen Breck, [illegible] and Porter; absent, Councilmen Besser, Burch, [illegible], Hopkins and Ripley—5. The Council was called to order and adjourned until the next regular meeting.

[illegible] were also present at their post of duty, with their usual promptness, W. S. Caldwell, Auditor and Clerk, W. F. Trimble, City Attorney, Marshal Lappeus, and our worthy friend C. H. M.

We are informed that Councilman Burch leaves on Monday next, overland, for the Atlantic States, on business and to visit his old residence.

PASSENGERS FOR VICTORIA.—The steamship Active, [illegible] Commander, sailed for Victoria at 11 P. M. yesterday, with the following passengers: Mrs Garesch, two children and nurse, Mrs Burnett, G. C. Mansfield, John [illegible], W. H. Livermore, John Wilson, John Neal, O [illegible]ton, E Phillips, H Watson, H W Fuller, P Thayer, [illegible] Douglass, F M Bates and wife, David McDonald and wife, R Lyton, D K Greene, Mrs Freel, H Inckman, [illegible] Herrig, O H Nesbeit, Col Johnston, F Holliday, [illegible] Hayes, Mrs Robt Wilson, Mrs McBrien, J B Robinson and wife, Miss Nellie Commings, Miss F Field, Geo W Wright, Col M A Rone and three in the steerage.

SONS OF TEMPERANCE.—We have heard suggested the propriety of attempting the organization in this city of a Division of the Order of Sons of Temperance. Two Divisions have recently been organized in Marion county—and the only Divisions in the State. Some years ago the Order was a flourishing one in the State, almost every town and neighborhood having its Division, but it gradually ran down till about 1863 or '4, when the Order of Good Templars was introduced, and then the temperance people took hold of the latter order, and the Sons of Temperance became extinct. The Order is said to be reviving and growing up again in some of the Eastern States.

PORTLAND LIBRARY.—The following new books have been received at the Portland Library: The [illegible]'s Kingdom, by the Author of John Halifax; [illegible] Life, Byford; Down the River, Oliver Optic; [illegible] Lucy Larcom; Marbel's Mistake, Mrs Stephens; [illegible], Among the Hills, Whittier; The Arts of Reading and Speaking, Cox; Gloverson and his [illegible], Kesler; Hillsboro Farms, Sophia Dickinson; [illegible], Elizabeth Akers; Dr. Howell's Family; [illegible] the Author of Madge; A Thousand Miles across [illegible]; Under the Willows, Lowell; [illegible].

[illegible]-NIGHT.—Remember the concert to-night [illegible] and others. All who love music should [illegible] for the pleasure it will give. All charitable people should attend for the good their contributions will do the poor, for whose benefit the concert is given. There [illegible] already several appeals for help, and here [illegible] an excellent opportunity to assist in answering [illegible] a practical and at the same time pleasurable way. [illegible] should be a crowded house as every dollar expended [illegible] tickets will go to relieve want and carry gladness [illegible] of Portland's own poor.

[illegible] LOGGED.—Mr Tarbell informs us that the [illegible] Reed, a vessel mentioned in the Wright's memorandum as being at Neah Bay, was water-logged and would [illegible] put back to Victoria. A passenger by the Wright [illegible] the opinion that it was doubtful if she could succeed in getting back as she was leaking so badly as to [illegible] all hands at the pumps. Should the heavy [illegible] continue, [illegible] the chances of reaching Victoria [illegible] be very slim.

[illegible] ITEMS.—From the Unionist we learn that the Board of Managers of the State Agricultural Society met [illegible] Salem yesterday for the consideration of business connected with the Society. An effort is being made to get [illegible] price of licenses for auctioneers raised to one hundred dollars per year. Mr. D. W. Prentice, assisted by the [illegible] of the First Congregational church, will give a [illegible] of vocal and instrumental music, on Friday evening of this week.

[illegible] WEATHER.—Capt. [illegible] of the Wright reports [illegible] the wind was blowing a living gale when he arrived [illegible] the bar, and he was compelled to lay off for twenty [illegible] hours. The weather was still rough when he left [illegible], with indications of becoming still worse. It is doubtful if either the Ajax or Active will get to sea before the last of the week. All the old seamen predict a five days' continuance of the present foul weather.

[illegible].—Capt. Rogers informs us that the barkentine [illegible] arrived at St. Helens on Tuesday evening, in [illegible] the Okanagan. A vessel not made out, has been [illegible] for two or three days off the bar evidently waiting [illegible] favorable weather to get in. The Geo. S. Wright did [illegible] her. When the latter came in it was blowing heavily, and it is probable that the vessel was then [illegible] off and out of sight from the Wright's course.

[illegible] FREIGHTS.—The steamer Ajax sailed yesterday with a heavy cargo of produce, consisting largely of flour and oats. She was down in the water nearly [illegible] feet. The Active took one hundred tons [illegible] and one thousand sheep. Had the Ajax possessed twice her carrying capacity it would not have been [illegible] for all the freight offered.

[illegible].—The distinguished Catholic Divines whose arrival from Victoria was announced a day or two since, [illegible] here yesterday by the steamer for San Francisco. [illegible] the passengers were, also, Judge Denny and [illegible] late of the Dalles, who go to reside hereafter in [illegible] where the Judge has formed a law connection.

[illegible] CIRCUIT COURT—DEADY J.—Proceedings of yesterday.

[illegible] R. Lamb et al vs. J. A. Davenport et al.—[illegible] argument of the cause [illegible] and cause submitted.

[illegible] TO THE PRISONERS.—Rev. Mr. Miller of the Episcopal church of this city held divine service at [illegible] o'clock yesterday in the county jail.

[illegible].—The officers of the Emmet Guard will give a [illegible] at their Armory this evening. They will no doubt have a pleasant time.

The Rebellion's Death Blow

A [illegible]

Dan. Huston, [illegible], in the following [illegible] the late Army [illegible] talks understandingly and with [illegible] appreciation of the events of November and December, 1864, in Tennessee, but [illegible] interest [illegible] to [illegible] and [illegible] entirely less [illegible] of the [illegible] had [illegible] with their [illegible] very little [illegible] yet they achieved the first complete and decisive victory of the war, and the only one until the final collapse of the Confederacy which had been [illegible] by that very victory. The [illegible]:

On [illegible] December [illegible] there began [illegible] meeting of the [illegible] soldiers of these Western armies that [illegible] splendid [illegible] in war, the Army of the Ohio, the Army of Georgia, the Army of the Tennessee and the Army of the Cumberland. Of [illegible] present at the [illegible] compared with the number of men who served in the splendid organizations named, [illegible] still [illegible] large in itself [illegible] some of the greatest [illegible] known to modern warfare, [illegible] H. Thomas, Sherman, [illegible], Blair, Schofield and others. The Western forces [illegible] clear [illegible] the war [illegible] and were distinguished for the variety and the vigor of their operations, which were eminently fruitful in results from the beginning of the [illegible] what Admiral Farragut began so well at New Orleans, as related to what may be styled Mississippi operations, because directed to the establishment of National control over the Great River, but they had done great things since the fall of New Orleans was taken, at [illegible], at Fort Henry, at Fort Donelson, at Shiloh and elsewhere. And they [illegible] had [illegible] at Chattanooga, at Franklin, at Nashville, in Georgia, and on other fields in other States. Not only did they reconquer the Mississippi, but they marched to the Atlantic, and they were fast approaching Richmond, after having taken Savannah, and caused the abandonment of Charleston, when the final exertions of the Army of the Potomac drove the rebel force out of the Capital, and compelled it to surrender. Where services were so diversified, so brilliant, so useful, and so widely spread it is difficult to say which particular series of actions was greatest, but we incline to the belief that the finest piece of military work performed by the Western soldiers was that which was done in Tennessee in the first half of December, 1864, and which had its completion in the grand battle of Nashville, on the 15th and 16th of December, in which General Hood's advance was not only brought to an end, but his army destroyed. Nothing in the war, it seems to us, surpassed what then was accomplished, and we can well recollect, as must all loyal Americans, how great was the joy felt throughout the country when news came of the result of the mighty duel of two able commanders, at the head of as fine armies as ever confronted each other in war. A mountain of care was lifted from the mind of every patriot in the land, when that news was published, for Gen Hood, who had a high reputation, was believed to be very strong, and to be acting on a large and well understood plan of operations, so that his success would be productive of vast evil to the national cause. But, able as Gen. Hood unquestionably was, he met his superior in the leader of the Union army, and brave as his men unquestionably were, they met more than their match in the Union soldiery led by Gen. Geo. H. Thomas. The events of those days of "dim December" completed General Thomas' claim to the title of a great soldier. All intelligent men who had carefully observed the course of warlike operations had long before come to the conclusion that he possessed the military virtues in the fullest extent, and his proceedings at Nashville entirely justified their belief. He showed there that he had in the highest measure the qualities that were exhibited by the two greatest of the imperial Marshals of France, Soult and Davoust—their coolness, their reticence, their carefulness in preparation, their regard for discipline, their clear and just perception of the time when to strike, and their energy and vigor in dealing blows that meant destruction, and effected it. He took his time—but not a minute more than was necessary, for no man better knows the value of time in war—without regard to clamor and criticism, and when the hour for action came he acted with a comprehensiveness and a decision that rendered success as certain as the conclusion of a great logician. If ever it should be said of a military leader that he "organized victory," that leader was General Thomas, in Tennessee, in December, 1864. Nelson, with pardonable pride, said that what he had done in the battle of the Nile was not merely a victory—it was a conquest. So was it at Nashville. The rebellion there was conquered. The blows dealt it on the 15th and 16th of December were not simply staggering blows that caused it to reel. They were crushing blows that laid it flat on the earth, with no further power than sufficed it to kick in vain. We believe that the verdict of history will be, that in no other series of operations was work equal to this done.

From that time the people felt that the contest was fast drawing toward the end. It was fitting that the reunion of the brave men of the West should take place on the anniversary days of that decisive action, by the event of which the rebellion was placed in the death agony. Nor should mention of the admirable conduct of General Thomas' valiant supporters at Franklin be omitted. Franklin was the overture to Nashville, and shadowed forth what was to happen seventeen days later. At Franklin, Schofield, Wagner, Stanley, Opdyke, and T. J. Wood did noble work, and at Nashville, most of these gallant leaders were not less distinguished, besides Smith, Hatch, McArthur, Wilson and others. It is well to refer to these deeds of those days when the future of America rested on the event of battle, and when the question of the nation's existence or destruction had to be submitted to and decided by, the logic of kings, which is cannon. Years in their rapid and unerring course are fast and ruthlessly separating us from that moment, us period when the Republic was perfecting its structure by a free use of the Roman cement called blood, the only material, it should seem, that can render a political edifice solid and permanent, and enable it to withstand "the waves and weathers of time." As we move away from the exciting period we are in danger of forgetting what was done by the best and the bravest, the wisest and the most patriotic of the people, the men who fought hard, worked hard, fared hard, and when necessary, died hard. We should struggle against the approach of ingratitude and oblivion, and strive to keep alive in our minds a full sense of the mighty obligations we are under to those men, our citizen soldiers and sailors, who saved the Union, the Republic [illegible] of slavery and disunion.

SUGAR.—The Commercial Herald estimates that the consumption of sugar throughout the territory that depends on San Francisco for a market amounted last year to between forty three and forty four million pounds. So rapid is the increase in the demand for this article that it is estimated that the requirement for the current year will amount to fifty million pounds.

PIRATES
SAIL UNDER FALSE COLORS!!

THE BEST EVIDENCE OF THE VALUE OF AN article may be found in the fact of its having numerous imitators. Every [illegible] literary work [illegible] every successful play has been [illegible] every honest man has his detractors, every genuine article has been counterfeited, and every valuable medicinal preparation has its vile imitations. The proprietors of have encountered the usual experience in this respect. Such has been the success of this sterling preparation that all inferior articles of the kind have virtually been driven from the market. [illegible] this new [illegible] has exactly met the public want, and that no further demand exists for [illegible] preparations [illegible] sort of imitating either the name or the style of label, both of which have been duly secured by the laws of the State to the proprietors of the I X L Bitters.

In justice to ourselves, as well as to the public who may be deceived by these [illegible] practices, we hereby notify all parties guilty of infringement [illegible] as well as those who have been buying [illegible] in order to palm off the [illegible] article, that they will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

For the further protection of [illegible] that we do not sell our Bitters in bulk [illegible] by the case. Look for our Trade Mark on every bottle [illegible] Be sure to order Dr. Henley's Wild Grape Root I X L Bitters, and [illegible] with an inferior article.

Popular Superstition

[illegible] the most popular [illegible] That of [illegible] with [illegible] last supper [illegible] spilling salt with a man or having [illegible] of having eaten of John [illegible] company's salt kept them faithful, and it was [illegible] that they had eaten [illegible] spilling [illegible] This sym[illegible] would be considered un[illegible] lucky. Stumbling at beginning [illegible] means that if you begin ill you are likely to go on ill and badly. Magpies being unlucky is a superstition [illegible] the ark [illegible] it is both Celtic and [illegible] and [illegible] the old mound [illegible] are these [illegible] lucky. Certain animals crossing our path [illegible] the same and has a parallel superstition in [illegible] but there is no way [illegible] probably [illegible] the midst of antiquity. That animals should be killed in certain times of the month is most likely founded on the fact of the [illegible] keeping better at the time than another, and being less likely to be putrified by a weak and waning moon than by a strong and waxing moon. Washing hands in water that has been used by another causing them to either kiss or quarrel has been referred to [illegible] washing his hands, but I think it must be referred to the older use and custom which he illustrated of washing an evil deed off his hands into the water or any that touched it. How many ladies tell you to bow to the new moon, that it is unlucky to see the new moon through glass, to turn a piece of money in your pocket for luck the first time you see the new moon, which was at least as ancient as the time of Job, who emphatically declares that he has never kissed his hand to the moon.

A great deal of curious matter is to be found in these notions. Among fishermen there is a belief that a salmon weighs more when dead than when just caught, apropos of a man weighing more when dead than when alive, and which is very likely true as when the lungs are inflated a man really weighs less, otherwise why does he float higher in water? The twelfth wave on the sea coast is really the largest. The belief in the rowan or mountain ash being efficacious against witchcraft is known over Europe.

The Oldest Man in America.

[From the Searcy (Ark.) Record.]

A Mr. Shannon, a native of the Emerald Isle, born in the year 1749, making this good year of our Lord 1868 one hundred and nineteen years old, passed through this city on Sunday last, on foot, on his way to Texas. Colonel Mosely, with whom he stayed on Saturday night, says he has the appearance in the face, at a glance, of being sixty-five or seventy years old, and remarkably hale and stout for his age. Upon a closer inspection, however, he appears to be so far beyond that, Colonel Moseley doubts not his statement of his age. His hair and beard are as white as cotton, both of which he wears very long, which gives him a grave appearance. He is a man of fine appearance, quite intelligent, and a very courteous gentleman—indeed the fine old Irish gentleman. He is a brick and stone mason by occupation, and carries his trowel with him to do any little job of work he may meet with while on his way to Texas. A friend at our elbow suggests that he is going to Texas to spend a decade or so of years, thinking perhaps, that that country offers better inducements to enterprising young men than the older States.

HIRAM SMITH'S

Ophthalmic Panacea!

IS WITHOUT DOUBT THE MOST WONDERFUL EYE HEALER that has yet been discovered.

It CURES the most stubborn and hopeless cases of CHRONIC INFLAMMATIONS, GRANULATED LIDS, FILMS, &c., as has been sufficiently demonstrated during the few months in which it has been brought into public notice. The proprietor is so fully convinced of its INFALLIBILITY that he WARRANTS A CURE OR REFUNDS THE MONEY. It can do the eyes no harm, and a trial [illegible] without injury [illegible] expense to the patient [illegible] is not effected.

It has cured cases of FIVE, SIX, NINE, FIFTEEN, and even EIGHTEEN YEARS standing in Harrisburg, Linn county, Oregon, and vicinity, to which the following persons will bear witness:

A. B. MOORE	NATHANIEL BELL,
[illegible] WALLACE	G. R. WARD,

OF THE

Weekly Oregonian.

FOR 1869.

Nineteenth Volume!

By common consent the OREGONIAN ranks first among the papers published in the Northwest. It is the oldest paper in the State and its circulation and influence are greater than that of any other two papers combined. As a journal of enterprise in gathering the latest intelligence, and in giving in each issue a larger amount and greater variety of reading matter it has no competitor. It is thoroughly identified with this city and State and neighboring Territories, where the number of its readers and its influence are constantly increasing.

An unflinching advocate of sound Union principles it at the same time pays special attention not only to MATTERS OF GENERAL INTEREST but to every thing of moment to the great

Agricultural, Manufacturing,

AND MINING INTERESTS,

And to the development of the resources and settlement of the Northwest.

Its columns contain a carefully prepared digest of

Among its corps of writers are regular correspondents at New York and Washington City, men who, having lived in this State, are able to write on Western affairs, both politically and commercially from an Oregon standpoint.

Its Literary and General Selections are from the best sources.

EXTENDED AND RELIABLE

are furnished every week, giving the Financial, Dry Goods, Hardware, and General Market Reports of Portland, and the latest reports by Telegraph of the San Francisco and New York markets. These reports are acknowledged to be the most accurate published in the State.

In every department it will be, as it has been, the foremost in the State in the field of journalism [illegible] firmly established, it will go forward with confidence, making new plans for improvement and usefulness, and hopes to gain increased circulation and support.
